The graphic is a dark-themed promotional poster for an online webinar. On the left, a vertical orange line is topped with a dot. To its right, the word 'Online' is written in a cursive orange font. Below it, 'WEBINAR' and 'WEBWRITING' are in bold white uppercase letters. Underneath, the title 'HOW TO WRITE FOR THE INTERNET SO THAT CUSTOMERS WANT TO READ AND BUY' is in smaller white uppercase letters. A white rounded rectangle contains a calendar icon, the text 'SIGN UP', and 'JANUARY 31 10:00 - 11:30'. At the bottom left is the 'invest in Dzierżoniów' logo. On the right, a circular orange frame contains a portrait of Kamil Nadolski, a man with glasses and a beard. Above the portrait, a white rounded rectangle contains the logos for 'Firmy Jutra program Google i PFR' and 'Dzierżoniów nastraja pozytywnie'. Below the portrait, a white rounded rectangle contains the text 'The training will lead Kamil Nadolski'.

Do you want to know how to create valuable and user-friendly content, thanks to which your offer will reach a much larger number of potential customers? Take part in a free training "Webwriting - how to write for the Internet so that customers want to read and buy".

Deadline January 31 at 10:00.

The training is the result of the involvement of the Dzierżoniów office in the Company of Tomorrow program created by Google and the Polish Development Fund.
